Thank you for your continued support of Amateur Radio in our community!

As we proceed through the holiday season, don't forget to take an opportunity set some goals for the New Year. Whether your goals be personal, professional, or amateur radio related, it's always good to strive for new or different achievements. Some suggestions for the amateur radio side, try to install some new antennas, try to get your existing antennas higher in the air, try a new band, try a new mode, upgrade your license, build an electronic project, set some operating achievement goals like worked all states, worked all continents, DX Century Club, or chase one of the many operating awards that are available.

May everyone have a Merry Christmas and prosperous new year. I hope Santa left a special gift for each of you under your tree.
